

Full Stack Web Development

31 January 2020

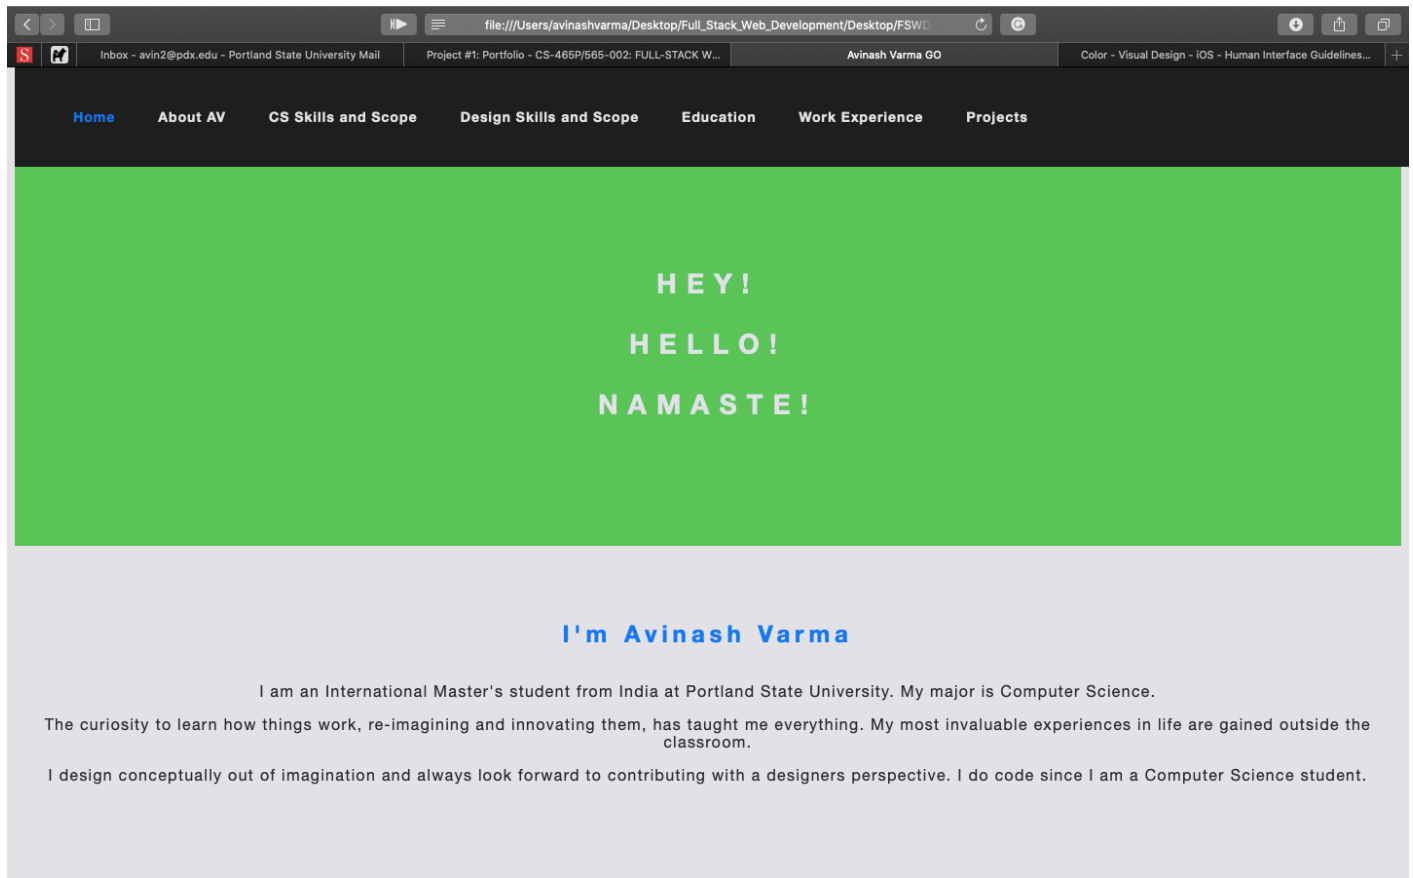

Avinash Varma

avin2@pdx.edu

Portfolio Project Description

The website is built using HTML and CSS. The website contains information about myself, my skills in design and computer science, my education, my projects and my work experience.

A sample demonstration on how the website looks like.

Although I had HTML and CSS knowledge before, I never practiced. This project bridged that gap.

I came across minor issues while developing the project. Some of them were alignment. Different styling for same elements at different places and visuals.

Overall this project was fun.

Note - The Project files are in a private repository. Only one person is allowed to collaborate - caterinasworld. If in any case, it's not accessible, please email at the address provided on the top.